REMEMBERING THE ANTIQUÉ PAPER ROUND-UP

Remembering our 42nd Antique Paper Round-Up on September 19-20, 2025.

Don Ruzicka shared a delightful moment with a very happy customer.

REMEMBERING THE ANTIQUE PAPER ROUND-UP

We held our 42nd Antique Paper Round-Up at Lloyd Center on September 19-20, 2025 and all indications were that it was a successful show. We had over 80 dealer tables of postcards, stamps, souvenirs and antique paper collectibles with dealers coming from California, Washington and Oregon. It is estimated that we saw 150 to 200 attendees at our show this year.

Antique paper shows give us that rare feeling of comraderie and the opportunity to meet people from around the region who share a like-mind. It is a real treat to see people who attend our show from year to year who share our passion for collecting and preserving historic images. We welcomed eight new members while our dealers reported strong sales and expressed their satisfaction.

We welcomed Janet Luty, granddaughter of pioneer postcard publisher and world-famous Oregon cartoonist, Murray Wade, who joined us to sell the Wade family collection of postcards, photos, sketches, books and magazines that he published from the 1800s to 1960. At the Lewis & Clark Exposition in 1905, he created many cartoon postcards promoting Oregon to attendees at the World's Fair.

We want to thank the members who brought their outstanding displays of postcards and postal history treasures. Also, we had a visit from television personality Kor Harlan and a videographer from KOIN TV who recorded segments for broadcast on Friday and Saturday.

Bill and Linda Beith with their postcards and postal history items that brought joy to their customers.

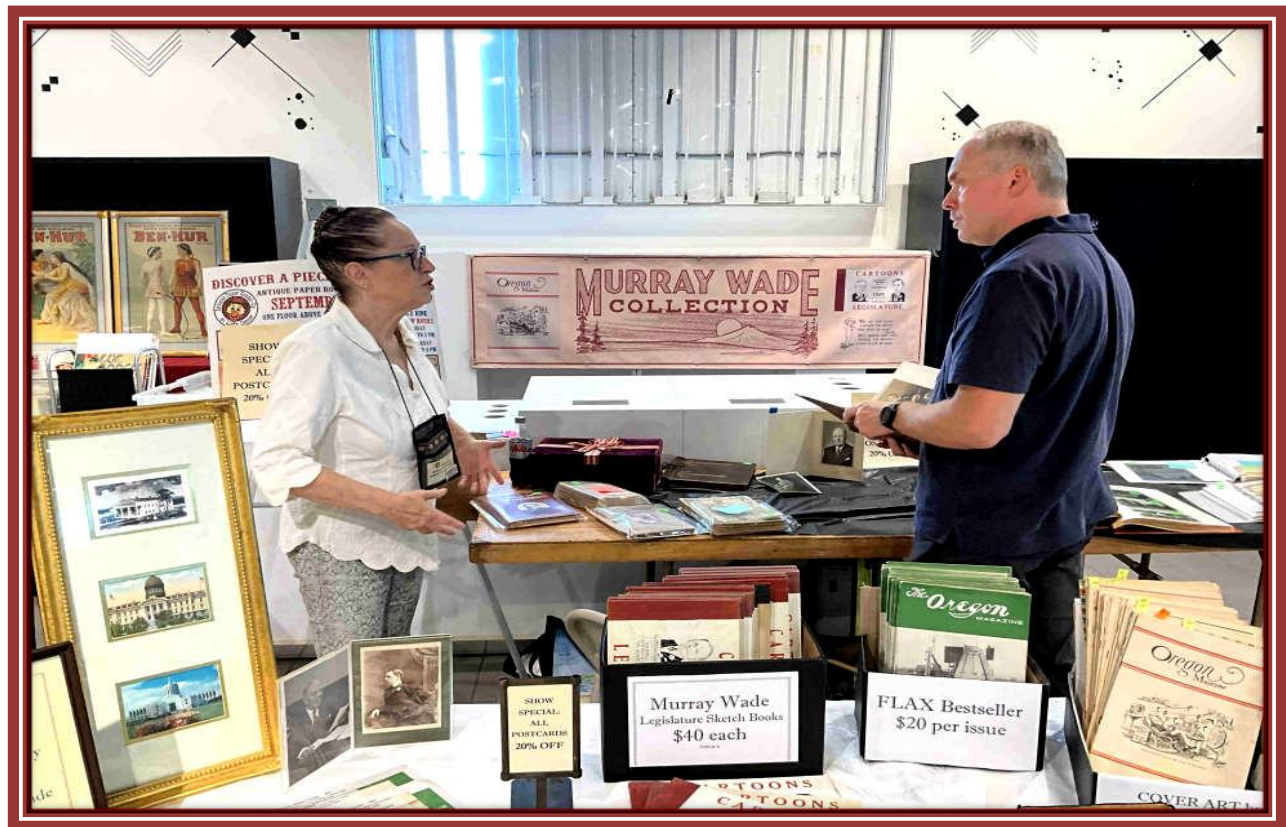

Brian Johnson's booth was a popular one.

Ryan Buda tabulated a purchase from C.J. Mason.

Glenn and Judith Mason of Cultural Images attracted the attention of many visitors.

Janet Luty shared highlights of the Murray Wade Collection with Brian Johnson.

Scott Withers showed his photos and paper collectibles to Kor Harlan as Philip Austin watched.

Matthew Molyneux exposed Kor Harlan to his delightful paper collectibles.

Rachelle and Roger Gutzman exhibited postcards and postal history treasures to their customers.

Mike Fairley of Fairlook Antiques offered the largest selection of postcards at the show.

Gary McCallister of Seattle with a very interesting selection of postcards and covers.

Tom Rankin, aka "The Scotsman," had a wide variety of postcards and antique paper treasures.

Si Baskent offered a very unique treasure trove of paper collectibles.

Shaun Harris aka “The Oregon Revenue Hunter,” brought a good selection of postal history items and historical documents to the show.

Tentative dates for our next Antique Paper Round-Up: September 18-19, 2026.
